Kosher Retailers Tighten Adherence to Covid-19 Guidelines

Monsey...Almost all kosher food retailers are mandating masks and social distancing, but enforcement varies. Many of the independent kosher supermarkets have posted personnel at the entrance to warn shoppers to wear masks, which are available for sale in the stores. The newly opened Bingo in Spring Valley was shut down temporarily last week Monday by local authorities for violating pandemic protocols, including overcrowding, social distancing and wearing masks, according to a report in the Journal News. Spring Valley officials said the managers had agreed to follow the state's rules on limiting the number of customers in the store at a time, educating employees on mask use and social distancing, and asking customers to wear masks. Despite rumors to the contrary, most patrons in those stores are wearing masks.
